EARL KITCHENER GOES TO BALKANS TO LEAD ALLIES

British War Secretary Quits Desk to Take Command at Front.

MOVE FOLLOWS JOFFRE'S VISIT

London Believes Conference With the French Commander Has Resulted in Sudden Change of Policy; Greek Situation Still Confused.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—It was officially announced this evening that Field Marshal Earl Kitchener had gone to the eastern theatre of war.

"It is generally believed," says the Post, "that Earl Kitchener's business will necessitate a stay so prolonged that it will be necessary to fill his place at the war office before long. It is true he has not resigned but the importance of his present errand makes it certain his resignation is only delayed."

A report has been made that Lord Haldane has brought back to the war office but this is probably unfounded.

Comment in this morning's paper indicated belief in some quarters that the sudden development regarding Earl Joffre, the French commander to London recently, in this connection the Weekly Nation made an interesting revelation.

"General Joffre's visit," it says, "has been one of the personal separations of the war, the participants expected to find a strategical conference between the orator and enthusiast. It would not be right to say they were carried off their feet, but the air has been magnetic and resulting decisions have been rapid. Who on such authority can dispute them?"

Premier Zaimis Agrees To Form New Cabinet.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Any hope which the Entente Allies may have entertained that the friendly neutrality of Greece might be converted into something more positive in their favor seems to be dispelled by the latest news from Athens. It is reported that Premier Zaimis has consented to reconstruct the cabinet and that the Chamber of Deputies will be dissolved.

Additional details were received from Serbian sources concerning the victory which the Serbians claim over the Bulgarian army, which gained at the entrance to Adrianople. In the southern section of the country British cavalry and French Infantry are said to have taken part. If it is true that the Bulgarians were routed and are in full flight for Veloje the safety of Prilep and Monastir is assured for the present and the way to Skopje may be paved.

Bulgarians are within a short distance of Nish. According to one account they have actually penetrated the city, while Austro-Germany still holds the northern portion of the frontier point on the eastern Danube railroad, 50 miles northeast of Nish.

The fortunes of war are showing the customary fluctuation in the east. Vienna asserts the Russian thrust along the Danube has been repulsed completely, 32,000 men being taken. Petrograd asserts the attack of the invaders west of Dyulik was beaten back with 1,000 of their dead left on the field. In the defense of Nish the Russians are now assisted by warships which have been shelling German positions at Skoplje.

The morning newspapers of London do not consider the speech of yesterday in regard to war office affairs but beyond the brief official announcement that Premier Asquith is in charge temporarily, no authoritative information has been given out.

ROMANIA INTERNS GERMAN WARSHIPS

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Romanian authorities have taken the necessary steps to bring into Romania British and other vessels flying the Russian flag which are loaded with arms and ammunition for Serbia, says a dispatch sent from Bucharest and received by wireless from Berlin.

This action has been taken, it was announced today, because of the Austro-German occupation of the Serbian bank of the Danube.

Russian men-of-war which fled into the Romanian harbor of Gradozzi have been disarmed and the crews numbering 900 interned.

NISH FALLS; GERMANS DECLARES WAR

BEIJING, Nov. 6.—The capture of Nish, which the Bulgarian, was announced officially here today.

Capture of Nish on the Morava river in Serbia, about 40 miles northwest of Nish was announced today by the German war office. More than 5,000 Serbians were taken.

The Austro-Germans in Galicia are said by the war office to have won further victories over the Russians along the Struma river. The Russians were thrown back to their old positions on the east bank of the river. In the recent fighting there, 50 officers and 4,000 Russians were taken.

GRAND JURY IS DRAWN TO PASS ON ROAD PLANS

Lower End of Fayette Again Predicted, But Flight Will be Made to Have Plan Approved.

The December grand jury has been drawn and while the southern end of Fayette county again appears to predominate it is believed that the road program of the county commissioners will stand a better chance of securing approval than two months ago, when the September grand jury rejected all of the proposed improvements in this section. ## METHODIST BISHOPS WILL MEET AT ST. JAMES PARK

Gathering at Linden Hall will be first in a private residence.

A meeting of the Methodist Episcopal bishops of the world will convene on April 25 at the home of Mrs. Sarah B. Cochran, Linden Hall, St. James Park, and will be in session for two weeks. No meeting of bishops of the world in a private residence has been known before. Rev. H. A. Baum, pastor of the Cochran Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church at Dawson, carried the invitation in person to the last meeting of the bishops held in Washington.

Bishop John W. Hamilton of Boston, who preached in the Cochran Memorial church last spring, visited Linden Hall and was so impressed with the Wrights' simple surroundings that he urged them to place for the next annual session in the spring. One feature of the session will be the reading of the Episcopal address by Bishop John Hamilton.

100 Free Prizes for You Women Who Tell Us the Most Uses for KEROSENE

It's past belief how many women, good housewives too, think that kerosene is good only for lighting and heating. But then, of course, there are other hundreds of you who know its uses are almost boundless.

Some tell us they've tried kerosene as a floor polish—and find it splendid—that it will preserve the finish and beauty of fumed oak set better than the most costly dressing, and, mixed with whiting, with almost no rubbing, will make nickel trimmings glisten. Then, for cleaning the porcelain bath tub, nothing equals kerosene. It leaves it shining snowy white.

What Do You Do With Kerosene?

What are your pet methods for making kerosene work for you? You are probably acquainted with many helpful, practical uses, if you'll only just take a little time and dig them up, out of the store of your household experience.

Write down all you can think of. Send your list to the Contest Department of the Atlantic Refining Company, and you're just as likely as not to be one of the fortunate winners of any one of the 100 valuable prizes pictured in this advertisement.

It's ordinary common sense and not fancy composition that'll win these useful, handsome awards. All we want you to do is just tell us in your own way how you have found kerosene useful around the house.

The letter that lists the greatest number and the most practical uses for kerosene will win the first prize—a $33 New Perfection Oil Cook Stove—a prize well worth getting, for it surely does lighten the drudgery of cooking.

The next best five letters will be judged on the same basis, and for the writers of these there are five New Perfection Oil Cook Stoves (each valued at $10.75) to make work easier in the homes of five enterprising housewives.

In the same way the remainder of the 100 desirable prizes will be awarded. Read the list at the left.

Was there ever a chance to get so much for so little effort—no work, only a little thinking necessary—just write what your housework has taught you, but please use only one side of the paper and be certain your letter reaches us before December 1st, 1915, for on that date this contest positively closes.

Remember, the greater the number of uses you submit and the more practical each is, the more certain is the chance of your securing any one of these hundred splendid prizes.

Don't wait till the last day, but begin making up a list immediately—the longer the list the better your chance.

The Atlantic Refining Company Philadelphia

Besides the illustrated prizes, there are ten fifth and an equal number of sixth, seventh and eighth prizes, all splendid, serviceable Perfect Oil Heaters which your dealer sells for $3.80, $3.70, $3.60 and $3.30, respectively.

THE trade-mark on a shoe—just as on a garment or a canister of coffee—means that the reputation of the manufacturer stands behind the quality of the article.

And this, in a Regal, means that a quarter of a century's volume shoe-production and distribution to all parts of the world assures you that shoes trade-marked REGAL represent the utmost style and value that can be "built into" them at the price.

SATURDAY EVENING, NOV. 6, 1915.

CHAIN OF RISING PROSPERITY NOW COMPLETE.

The chain of prosperity between the raw materials and the finished products of the steel trade is now complete in the opinion of The Daily Iron Trade, though there is still some measure of doubt as to this in the Connellsville coke region where considerable coke remains to be sold on contract. It is certain, however, that the demand for pig iron is rising, and the demand for coke is following closely upon its heels. During the present week there has been much activity among the merchant operators, and many small plants in the Connellsville region are being fired up for the first time in a year or more. The greatest trouble has been to get enough men, but Connellsville wages and working conditions are undeniably attractive, especially to miners in other coal districts who are just now idle. In spite of the by-product bogey which buyers have persistently dangled in the faces of the merchant coke operators of the Connellsville region, for the purpose of bearing the price of furnace coke, it is beginning to be suspected that the market for coke will soon exceed its supply. It has in fact already done so, but the constant firing of little ovens has relieved the situation, and prevented any runaway market. Spot coke has remained at $110 over the demand price of contract coke in consequence, but if the Connellsville region should run into a spate of very bad weather which would cripple the coke movement, it is not impossible that $5 coke would quickly come to be a joke and become a stern reality. In the meantime, The Daily Iron Trade is looking very buoyant and is cheerful. It says:

"Connellsville coke shipments last week reached the record total for the year of nearly 142,000 tons, which was about 10,000 tons more than the estimated production. It has been some years since anything like the present rate of shipments was equalled in the Connellsville regions. Compared with the total weekly shipments at the beginning of the present year, last weeks shipments were two and one-half times larger. Merchant coke producers are not satisfied, however, every week they have been fighting a couple of hundred ovens, and last week the active oven list added a net total of 272. The gains in production which became noticeable early last spring and reached the 300,000-ton mark about the middle of May were registered for the most part by the ovens owned by blast furnaces and steel works interests; and it was not until the middle of the year that the merchant ovens began to feel the impact from the return of mine trade. Since July 1st, however, the merchant coke in Connellsville regions have been adding to their active capacity steadily until last week practically all the gain of 4,200 tons over the previous week was registered by the merchant ovens. The Courier is authority for this statement that in both regions 72 per cent of the available ovens are now operating. Little wonder, then, that the Connellsville operators are feeling exceedingly cheerful. It is true that contracting has dropped off the last week or ten days, but books ought to be fairly well filled and prices are moving steadily upward. The market for coke in Connellsville should be holding about $2.75 and that contract coke can be had at $2.25 to $2.50, although a short time ago both prompt and contract fuel were selling about on an even level. Some good contracts have been made by blast furnaces around $2.25 for delivery throughout 1916, and the coke thus contracted for was of the best quality. It seems unlikely, however, much more standard coke for delivery through 1916 can be bought at that price, and there are available oven operators who took for $2.25 before the end of the year. This latter price, however, likely will apply to transactions involving material for prompt shipment, and not a great deal of that, either."

"The big drive in steel-making grades of pig iron, which has been under way at Pittsburgh for some days, has grown into good proportions. Latest advice is to the effect that the total tonnage involved in these transactions will be 1,000,000 tons. This has resulted in increased prices of 50 cents a ton on basic iron and it is expected Bessemer iron also will advance somewhat, but possibly not so fast as basic until mills begin to find that their customers will be just as well satisfied with bessemer sheet bar and billets as with open hearth just as can be assured of prompt delivery. That day is approaching fast. Southern pig iron now is held at a minimum price and sales are being made at even higher prices. Southern coke, by the way, is being held as stiffly as is northern fuel, which is altogether natural and normal. The pig iron production figures for October, published yesterday, were not surprising to close observers in the trade, and it is the belief that, since considerable theoretical merchant furnace capacity still is idle, with the exception of those furnaces in the winter, or for spring, pig iron production before early winter ought to reach proportions never before dreamed of. In line with these suggestions comes the reiterated statement from well-informed interests identified with the Lake Superior ore trade that next year lake vessels will move between 55,000,000 and 60,000,000 tons of ore, a tremendous volume of this material. Lake vessel interests are working strenuously to make every boat available for carrying ore next year and ship yards already are filled with orders for new ships, some of which cannot go into commission until next September."

"Bessemer Road is progressive in everything but the progress of its street improvement.

THE DEMOCRATIC SPLIT.
Bryan and Wilson have taken issue on the question of national preparedness. The value of the once Peerless Leader is for peace. He is opposed to war and does not want to be tempted to align himself with it. He prefers the bird cage and the bottle of grog juice. President Wilson is for peace, but he believes that peace will only be assured by being prepared against war. This is denounced by brother Bryan as "a departure from our traditions, a reversal of our national policy, a menace to our peace and safety and a challenge to the spirit of Christianity which teaches us to influence others by example rather than by exciting fear."

It is very difficult, though political history would be repeated next year, and that a great political party now in power will be defeated by a division of its forces. In 1912, the Republican party was the goat; in 1916, it looks as if the Democratic party was going to play the same role. The prospects of Republican success were never better. The Republicans are reunited while the Democrats are about to be divided. The Republicans have no interest in the Democratic quarrel, except for the fact that they can defeat the Democrats in 1916 whether they be united or divided.

The Democrats are in office now with all the power of the official patronage, but the Republicans have what is much more effective and desirable, which is to say the support of the people.

The Connellsville News is convinced that the men to whom Thompson has assigned his holdings "are of the right timber to bring order out of the wilderness of chaos." The News must have had inside information. The man to whom the editorial credit goes is not named, but last evening in time for the morning newspapers, The Thompson deal is dependent for its publicity entirely upon the morning newspapers. Singularly enough, the name of Counselor Higham, President of the Connellsville News, heads the list of the committee. The counselor is an excellent advisor of others, a fine lawyer and a brilliant orator, but we feel that he is a near relation of a newspaper man. He is a noble oak at the bar, but a scrub reporter on the press.

The Connellsville night school is not a dark proposition. It is a light to the feet of ignorance.

It seems after all this hullabaloo about Fayette county speckles in 57 varieties of jalapeno pepper mixture, indulged in by the Democratic organs during the late campaign to attack the efficiency of Republican administration, it appears that a Democratic Judge turned one of these cases down and a Republican District Attorney has won. The following sentence is without a particle upon the merits of the case it is sufficient to say that the Republican press officers are shown to have been doing what the Democratic organs eliminated they were not doing.

Competition is the life of trade, especially railroad passenger traffic. Fairmount and Morgantown have better services and lower rates already and competition has just begun.

Frederick Pinney Earle has taken unto himself a fourth wife. He should have been born in the Mormon Church.

The city editor gave George P. Hoover, Democratic candidate for County Commissioner, 1,000 votes too many yesterday. If it had been a Republican candidate the barefoot organists would have roared their indignant disbelief.

The B. & N. didn't get started for a long time, but when it did get a move on it stirred things up.

There are all kinds of luck, but the railroad luck which consists in buying a horrible accident because the accident didn't happen is rather imaginative.

Italy is contending with Venetum at home and the Teutons abroad.

The Presbyterian organ in the finest organ in Fayette county, but it is not more responsive to the hand of the master than the Democratic organs of Fayette county.

There are lots that White Road improvement will be finished before Isabella Road.

He would first bathe his face with water as hot as he could stand for about fifteen minutes with a soft sponge and Cuticura Soap, then wash the ointment on his face and let it on all night. Then he would wash it off with the soap and then put the ointment on again. He would do that four or five times a day. In one month his skin was clear and now it is smooth like velvet and his eyebrows have come in nicely." (Signed) Mrs. Robert Pablo, June 12, 1914.

At the Theatres

Preparedness in Air, on Land, on Water,
Under Water, Engages Nation's Attention

SONSON THEATRE:

THE IMPOSTOR—William A. Brady will present the dainty little actress, Jose Collins, today at the Sonsen Theatre in the five reel dramatic success, "The Impostor." The World Film Corporation produces the play, which is based on a story by Louis Untermeyer, an excellent stage play of the same name. The protagonist of the picture is Monroe Alcott Capellini, who directed the great World War drama, "The Race in the Moonlight." This was a dual role play; so is "The Impostor," Jose Collins in the latter, has the part of "The Tenant," a girl, who marries a man who impersonates his dead brother, a blind invalid who left his inheritance to the widow.

The two impostors have a very bad time of it, as the dead man also left a son, who threatens to make things unpleasant for them. But in the end, "The Tenant" and her husband come successfully through the very trying ordeal, and everything ends happily for those most concerned. "The Impostor" is a strong and well constructed play, which holds the interest of an audience from beginning to end. "The Greater Courage" has just now in the leading role. It is a two reel big U. western drama, telling the story of a desperado's regeneration in the Montana mining country and the love of a refined eastern girl, who is virtually forced to marry the man who protects her against the insults of a dissolute gang. The picture is a most unusual appearance in the delightful Victoria comedy, "The Monte Bondon." It is a refined farce with an amusing story. The Lo-Ro comedy, "Does Flying Day?" has Harry Goldblatt and May Empress in the cast. It is a full barrel of fun. Monday, Charles Chaplin comes in a screaming two-reel comedy, "Bough and Doughnuts," also "The Broken Coin." Tuesday, the famous comedienne, Marie Cahill, appears in the solo and comedy, "Mimi Marvel," a Broadway Universal attraction.

COLONY THEATRE:

"NEARLY A LADY."—What can't Elsie Janis do?

After seeing her wonderful burlesque with the coulees in her new Bosworth Incorporated photo comedy, "Nearly a Lady," that is the first question that arises.

Minde, singer, dancer, author, Glenda is gifted with the ability to assimilate any new pursuit and make herself so master of it that she outdoes even those who have been at it for years.

In "Nearly a Lady," the Montana cowboy, played by Art Accord, the famous rider, demonstrates some of those bewitching dances with Glenda looking on. When the curtain is raised she frankly dots her plump skirt and uncomfortable riding breeches and boots and proceeds to do the farce dance she has just seen. With a smile, she quickly strips off the skin dances inside the riding robe which by means of her supple wrist, all the time describes a flying loop around her like the loop of a clematis. And the marvel of it is that her dance is far more expert than those of Art Accord and his boys who are genuine cowboys, bred and brought up on ranch and range.

"Nearly a Party," the third of the film comedies Elsie Janis has played for Bosworth Incorporated, is her favorite. Filled with action of a new kind and carrying a pretty love story, it quite justifies her popularity.

This 5-part picture is the attraction at the Colonial Theatre today. At the Travel series No. 21.

GERMAN COKE SHORTAGE

Tenton Unable to Find a Coal to Mix With Native Fuel.

With the approach of fall and winter, the shortage in coke that exists in Germany because of the war is being increasingly felt. The stoppage of English coal is responsible for the shortage. The supply of coke formerly was manufactured from a mixture of English and Upper Silesian coal.

Since the importation of the former ceased there has been a vain search for a substitute from which good coke could be made.

Atterber, Silesian, Bohemian, Polish and Westphalian coal all have been tried, and the result in each case is the same. The resultant coke is so brittle that it breaks and virtually cannot be used with any degree of success because the pieces fall through the grating.

Price has ceased to be the controlling factor in the coke problem. The city of Berlin alone has expended an excess of some $8,000,000 marks for coal, supposed to be a substitute for the English product, as its major refinery, which is located in a small town about 10 miles from Berlin, had charged that the shortages due to nationalism on the part of the municipality.

None of the coals tried have been fine gas producers, but the residue has been unmarketable for coke furnaces and gas establishments that formerly sold coke as well have had to leave their contracts only partially filled. Experiments are now being made with a new kind of Westphalian coal.

THE HEART OF NIGHT WIND

A STORY OF THE GREAT NORTH WEST
By VINGE E. ROE
ILLUSTRATIONS by RAY WALTERS

COPYRIGHT BY DOOD MEAD AND COMPANY

"You've witnessed the Inroads of the world on this fine timber, too."

"Yes, an' it hasn't tech'd yet. I've seen it cut up over the Range an' down this side, an' they're double stumps for every acre that's been cut, between here'n the coast."

Sandy was enjoying her succinct precision of knowledge and expression.

"And you've spent all three years in the midst of this wet-blanket climate?" he smiled. "How in the world do you do it—and keep your cheerfulness?"

"Bon," said Ma Daily kindly, "you can knock the country to me, but don't you go doin' it where the men won't hear you. Us wet-footed men used to the rain, but we don't like to hear the Easterners talk about it. It's a chip on every Oregonian's shoulder. You don't want to queer yourself."

There was a note of genuine good advice in the words and tone, and Sandy got a sudden insight into several little happenings that had puzzled him—for instance, the emphasized wearing of blue shirts in a rain that had soaked his overcoat, and a few remarks about the fact that Oregon rain didn't wet through.

"Thank you, Mrs. Daily," he said earnestly with a sudden feeling of friendship between him and this shrewd, kindly old general of men.

He turned presently to the girl, busily in the lamplight, her black head shining, a shadow over her eyes.

"By the way," he said, "if you care to you may ride Black Bolt whenever you wish. He needs exercise and I cannot use him enough. Would you care to ride him?"

She nodded quietly, without a flicker of the pleased excitement he had expected in the light of her seeming passionate love of the animal, but a slow, dull flush spread upward in her dark face and her fingers trembled a bit, he noted.

They trembled in all surely the next morning, when, with a bridle of colored and woven horsehair over her arm, she entered the lean-to.

Black Bolt was a gentleman born. Though he was wild as the girl for the free air, the green slopes and the yeilding sod under his feet, he stood still while she came up lightly, as a cat springs, with a little soft alighting, and they were gone, down over the smooth slope of the valley toward the lower railway.

There were two interested spectators to that splendid flight—Ma Daily from the cook-shack porch, who wiped her eyes a bit and said aloud: "Bless the child! Wild—wild! But it's natural," and Walter Sandy standing at the south window of the office.

Black Bolt, sick of the impersonating shed, fed like a buck full-lived with spring, his feet skimming the wet green of the grass. Beside them ran Coosab, low to the ground, long ears flapping, keeping the pace. Siletz, one braided tail whipped loose in the wind, her bare face wet, was flushed all through her dark cheeks, and her eyes were like an opium smoker's, content with all the world.

"Did you like it?" Sandy asked her amiably that evening as he passed through the eating room.

"Yes," said Siletz with her belying quietness.

"I believe I've found a study," he said to himself as he went on, "a worthy study in human nature."

And Siletz had found a new heaven and a new earth. Sometime wild within her that had ever moved restlessly broke forth, a glorious flower of ecstasy. Day by day thereafter she loosed Black Bolt and sped into fields of Elysium, lost to earth, intoxicated, mad with the rush of wind and rain. Always when she came back there was the dusky flush in her face, the sleepy look of intoxication in her eyes.

Thus winter closed in on the lonely camp in the mountains, blue-black and gray with mist and rain and vivid green with the new grass of the coast country.

CHAPTER VI.

Trouble With the Yellow Pines.

Walter Sandy sat in the office at the slough's edge, busy with the ledger. Two months had passed and something had lifted from him in these two months; a weight had lightened. Where had been a huge disgust, almost intolerable in its intensity, for this rain-knocked land, there had crept in an insidious admiration. Often now he looked down the green little valley sharply defined between its binding hills and felt the subtle charm of the intimate shadows, the near white dusk and the great trees under whose drooping feathered boughs there lay silence and a sense of repose.

Suddenly there came to him a clamor of voices, oaths and the throaty tones of strong men in anger. Up from the lower railway a group of loggers came plinking in their spiked boots. Behind them Murphy rocked excitedly along in the tiny locomotive.

Sandy quit his ledger and stepped outdoors.

"What's the matter, Collins?" he asked of a huge man in the lead, a perfect type of the logger of the great Northwest, sun browned, hard-muscled, wiry of figure and with the en-why not go at it from above?" The foreman looked at him inquiringly. "That left bank of the slough up there is in the form of a ridge. Don't you think we could set a crew at it at low tide and dig it through, turning the water into the field yonder? That would leave the slough empty here for the time between high tides. Could you get the timbers out in a few hours?"

Dally's experienced eye had already taken in every detail of the possibility as Sandy talked.

"That's a good scheme, Mr. Sandy," he said slowly. "I believe it'll work."

So it was that the first practical suggestion of the new owner was set into action.

The whole crew of the camp was brought out of the hills and set to work and the damaged railway was repaired as good as new; the break in the west bank filled, the slough running full again and nothing to show for the trouble but the flooded field of timber.

Under Walter Sandy's cool demeanor there was a small glow of satisfaction, a sense of having in a way redeemed himself.

At supper time Siletz, moving between the tables, laughed to herself softly, and her dark eyes under the little shadow of her parted hair held a sparkling gleam as if she had seen that conflict and enjoyed it.

"Siletz," said the owner, coming in suddenly from the east porch after the men had tramped heavily away to the bunkhouse, "whom do you know outside this camp?"

She was alone in the big spotless kitchen, her sleeves rolled up from her arms, slim and brown with a smooth color that was of the sun's giving.

"Outside the camp?" she asked, turning to him for a moment, stopped in some task of the aftermath of the meal, "why—nobody."

"Don't you ever go down to Toledo?"

Sandy was leaning in the doorway, his bright blue eyes upon her.

"I hadn't so far just spike 'em on to the sides," asked Collins with a droll upward glance.

"My Aunt Maria!"

Sandy stood near, realizing his limitations and raging helplessly, watching them lazily testing and pushing her and there.

"I hadn't so far just spike 'em on to the sides," asked Collins with a droll upward glance.

"I'm not you no friends there? No girl friends?"

She shook her head and he noticed the clean profile, the shape of the small pointed chin, the good forehead conflicting with a vague suggestion of seeing wild things in the velvety eyes.

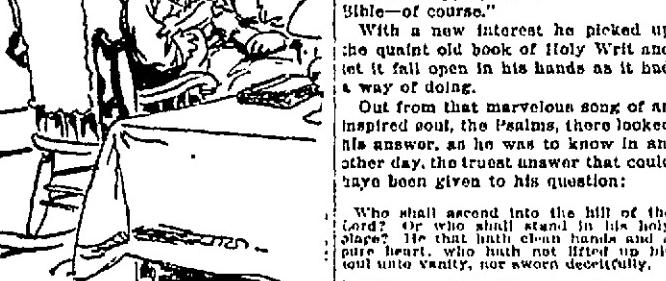

"Is there no one with whom you associate outside the camp? Think."

Suddenly there passed over her features a quick change. He could liken it to nothing but a wind on the surface of water, just a breath of change.

"Sometime," he said sternly, "you get back to camp and bring tools—peavies, hooks, a couple of chains and some picks. Bring a couple of axes, too. What do you mean by such business?"

"Orders," said Collins with a grin.

"You see, Mr. Sandy," said Daily apologetically, "there's no fixin' such timbers as them, not when they've got

"Seen 'Em Grow From Three Cabins An' a Covered Wagon."

To carry such weight. They'll have to be taken out entirely an' new ones set."

"I didn't know," returned Sandy frankly, "won't they hold back the work?"

"A day or so, mebbe. We can take the fallers out an' put them on with Collins an' the rest. There's enough down to keep this buckers busy a day or two, anyway. We won't lose much."

"Do you think this is the work of the Yellow Pines people, Daily?"

"Sure," said Daily with certainty, "they've done worse than this before now. Cut our best cabin two years ago and twice they've run the ditch off the truck into the slough. They're bad actors."

"But what the use? What do they gain?"

"They want to run us out of the hills. Been at it for ten years. They're just giving you a hint as the new owner."

The repairing of the damaged railway was another revelation to the easterner. Now timbers were brought down and the slanting floor was thickly underplanned. Then with pick and shovel the men went at the work of digging out the damaged timbers.

The work was heavier, more dangerous and disagreeable by reason of the water, four feet deep at low tide, eight at high, which lapped their bases.

Finally put them at the digging from the slope down at low tide; but on the second day he stood long running his blunt fingers through his hair, as when he caught the sound of voices. They came from the dense wall of the woods at his right and unconsciously he listened, lifting his head and straining his ears. Presently a look of blankness spread upon his face.

One of the voices was familiar, soft and sliding with minors, the voice of the girl Siletz, and she was speaking Jargon.

"Even as this amazing knowledge was borne in upon him the tongue parted and she stepped out before him.

A Siletz squawk followed her, a short brown creature of comely features, clad in brilliant fashions, a towering pyramid of baskets slung to one shoulder. Nosing eagerly at the girl's el-

HIGH SCHOOL WINS AT CHARLEROI, 6-0; FAILS TO GET BALL

Home Club Refuses to Recognize Unwritten Law of the Game.

LOCALS ARE PENALIZED OFTEN

Incompetent Officials It Is Alleged,
Operated Against High School
Players. Piling Up a Much Larger
Score, Have All Best of Contests.

Connellsville won the football game at Charleroi yesterday, 6 to 0. The locals failed to get the ball, which the unwritten law of the game says shall go to the victor, and was heavily penalized during the contest. The ball was in Connellsville's possession the greater part of the time.

As usual, Jimmie Darr was after the biggest man on the opposite team. This and in in he would break through Charleroi's line and tackle him for a loss. During the second Moyer, Darr and Miller all pulled off long runs, varying from 5 to 30 yards and Connellsville seemingly gained at will.

It was due to two officials just out of high school that Connellsville did not score often. When a big run was made the officials were always on the job and would call the touch back for a penalty. Eddie Dugan of town was the umpire and held the others down as much as possible by using the rule book frequently.

Then when Darr was called back from the touch back through the rules for 15 yards and a touchdown, Charleroi protested. Darr failed to kick the goal. The touchdown was made shortly before the first quarter ended. The game started by Connellsville kicking off to Charleroi. That eleven started out strong in making two first downs in a row. Then they had to kick and the ball was punted back to them immediately.

The local line held and the ball went to Connellsville. It was with the bulk of the time thereafter. During the latter part of the last quarter Charleroi tried to strengthen and make the first down in making the game Connellsville held out for a forward pass and pointed only twice. The forward pass was intercepted, but all that was necessary to get the ball was to throw the opponents for a loss and hold them. Charleroi made but one forward out of seven attempts.

Connellsville made but one substitution during this entire game. In the last quarter McCormick was substituted for Davidson at tackle. The quarters were two of ten minutes, and two of twelve.

When the game was over Connellsville asked for the ball. Official said they were not in the habit of giving balls to the winners. Principal Smith then asked if it was not the custom, and Charleroi admitted it. Their excuse was that the team could not afford to give balls away. Principal Smith offered to buy the ball but Charleroi said the master would be taken up with the athletic association.

There were about 30 Connellsville boosters there. Old Connellsville people who live near Charleroi joined the local fans. The lineup:

Touchdown—Simek. Referee—Campbell of Charleroi High. Field Judge—Smith of Charleroi High. Umpire—Dugan of Connellsville. Headline-man—Nativi of Charleroi High. Substitution, McCormick for Davidson.
